But when Dawn Sokol's first book, 1000 Artist Journal Pages, broke the fourth wall and shared the work of artists all over North America and parts of Europe, it created a ripple of inspiration throughout the art journaling community. In this much-anticipated follow-up, Sokol features more than 1,000 new, captivating pages, this time—by popular demand—from artists across the globe. Lists of techniques and materials used for each page, plus behind-the-scenes interviews, give readers a ...

ABOUT MY JOURNAL PAGES: I've been using Christie's journal prompt pages for the past year because they are absolutely the most diverse and thought-provoking prompts on the market. They are simple and beautiful yet allow you to get even deeper into your thought process if you want. They are flexible and highly usable in almost every situation. Not only do I use the pages for myself, but I often ...

My Artist Journal is a handmade book of different types of paper that serves as a sort of art-diary. These pages are always made on a whim as there is rarely any planning or forethought done when I start them. Some do have a theme, but the composition of the pieces are created in tandem with the creation of the artwork themselves.

Art journals look great when you fill the page, so whatever the size you choose, make sure it complements the way you like to work. Another characteristic to think about is the type of pages that are in the book. Since it's a good chance you'll be using mixed media, select a journal whose paper can handle both drawing and painting—and lots of it.
